The Sydney Morning Merald

SATURDAY, DECEMBER 18, 1875. THYRE was no quorum in the Legislative Assembly, yesterday, at the usual hour of meeting, and Mr. Spiecker, therefore, adjourned the House until four o clock on Tuesday.

MR. LLOYD appears to us to be rather hyper-MR. LLOYD appears to us to be lather hyper-critical in grumbling at the Government for paying off the public debt "by fits and starts," The fact is that they had no oppor-tunity to do anything else; the debt was contracted by fits and starts, and lumps of money have been borrowed just as the Government happens to want them. These Government happens to want them. These delentures therefore fell due at all sorts of inegular times, and in irregular sums, and there is no help for it under the circumstances but to renew them, or discharge them, as seems judicious. It so happens that we have next year £735,000 falling due, and we have ment could have done better. We have often deprecated the way in which our debt has been contracted, and have pointed out that with a consolidated debt compelling an annual discharge each year, we should have no fluc-tuations and should not be subject to the risk of having to renew heavy loans in perhaps a time of panic. But no Government has ever pass any scheme for dealing our debt in a comprehensive way, and the present Government can only deal with the matter as it finds it. The policy of redeeming the debt out of surplus is a sound one, seeing that this surplus arises entirely out of land sales. We have frequently shown that the part of our debt contracted for immigration ought to have been long ago discharged, if indeed it ought ever to have been contracted, and we have also shown that many works have been carried out and charged to the loan account, which on any rational system ought to have been chargeable to the current revenue. But the payment of this large sum now goes a long way to redeem these mistakes. It is better late than never, as the proverb says; that perhaps ought never to have been con-tracted, or if contracted ought sooner to have been discharged. The redemption of this sum rill make the total of our debt stand on a fairer basis than it did before, and there will the present reason for charging it with containing obligations towards posterity that ought to have been borne by the generation that is past. The propriety of paying while we can is also made stronger because there will be no chance of paying off any more for several years to come. No more debentures fall due now until the year 1888, and future Treasurers, whatever their surplus, will have no chance of extinguishing the public debt, unless they go into the market and buy up debentures. Whether any of our present politicians will have the apportunity of handling the public finances in 1888 is more than we can say. Looking at the fact that political reputations are short lived, and that there are many riaing men who want to do as well for themselves as those have done who have already been fortunate, it is probable enough that, even if the present race of financiers should still be showing their grey hairs in public life when the next half-million of debt falls

Part Loses.

No. of 1861, the postoral leases are classified as follows for the year 1874:

No. of the present race of financiers should still be showing their grey hairs in public large.

Apper Loses.

Apper that, even if the present race of financiers should still be showing their grey hairs in public life when the next half-million of debt falls due, they may find that a younger and more active race has shoved them from the stool, and taken possession of the opportunity. Most of the other colonies, and notably New Zea-land and South Australia, have, when they borrow money, established at the same time a system for discharging the debt. We have abstained from deing that, except we have accument from doing that, except with reference to some special loans, and up to the present date we have done very little indeed in the way of redeeming our debt. We are therefore but fetching up an accumulation of arrears this year by getting rid of about three-quarters of a million, and we do not know how long it will be before another of portunity of the same kind occurs. Whether have a surplus of half a million to part with to the depths of financial distress, and have 1876, when we were on the top of the tide of pre-perity, the people and the Parliament should have been so foolish as not to have NORTH WILLIAMS GOLD MINING COMThe Transfer Books of this Company will be closed on Wednesday, December 22, at 12 clock moon, preparatry to payment of Dividend of one shilling per share on the 2th instant.

> It is not usual in a Budget speech to discuss the land question to the extent indulged in by Mr. Robertson last week. But there is not another country in the world, besides New South Wales, where the public estate yield taxation, and that is reason sufficient, if ther were no other, for inviting Parliament for inviting Parliament aspect of the case. We are somewhat in doubt whether Mr. Roherston recognises the right of the Press to discus this question, or at least whether he heartily approves of the Press exercising that right For some reason or other he seems to have acquired the notion that he alone has a vested interest in it; and as long as he is in public life nobody else must presume to know any-thing about the Crown lands, or dare to suspect the infallibility of his acts and his representations. For all good service rendered by public men, it is our duty to be grateful.
> We acknowledge the debt of gratitude to Mr. Reherrson on several accounts; but he and all other public men (for he is not altogether singular in his sensitiveness to Press comments) should understand that the Press must, and will and ought to discuss whatever may appear to be for the public welfare, and respect nothing in public of all questionable official representations. We have already given pretty ample proof that our present Land Acts have failed in the special purposes for which they were intended, and have been as singularly successful in accomplishing something else. The Parama devoted one-third of his Budget speech to the overthrow of this allegation, and it is due to him that we examine his counter case. That case rests upon two documents issued from the Treasury, to one of which we have already alluded; with the other we shall deal in the present article.
> The document before us professes to show

> the amount of revenue derived from the public estate for each year since the introduction of responsible government, dividing it into the proceeds of sales and the amount of rents. From the following sentence in Mr. Robearson's speech, we presume it must have been prepared under his instructions:—"Our rental is going on, and there is no fear of its not going on. Our rental is based now on the initest principles that ever a rent was based on in the world."

> The return, however, prepared to prove this does not prove it at all, but when properly sifted and supplemented proves the opposite. The rental is not increasing in proportion to the increased value of the Crown lands, and if it is based on fair principles, then there must be something wrong in the way in which the principles are worked out. Of course, assertions count for nothing, and we beg our readers to study the evidence which we have the rental of the public estate is rising, not with standing the accelerated rate of alienation then it must be true that the same area let to Crown tenants brings in a greater return now than formerly. Why did not Mr. Ronnarson cause the extent of area to be included in this return? Fer the simple reason that it completely overthrows his statement. Here are the exact figures, copied from Government documents for every year for which the necessary information is to be obtained.

Annual rest payable. £81,066 12 3 88,946 10 0 0 15,142 17 8 222,977 17 5 256,490 17 3 254,950 16 16 249,866 10 1 241,568 2 2 202,500 0 3 207,059 5 3 219,840 13 8 miles under pastoral lease. 1865. 144 520 1864. 167,299 1866. 183,618 1865. 200,459 1867. 204,708 1868. 204,961 1870. 200,353 1871. 216,268 1872. 242,976 1873. 225,826 1674. 286,106

There is indisputable evidence here that of late years the rental of the public estate has been declining both proportionately and absolutely. In 1866, the area under pastoral lease was about twe-thirds of the present lease was about twe-thirds of the present area; yet the rental was larger, and in proportion to the area it was almost double the present rental. Since that date the rent trasts. The annual leases are nearly four times as numerous as the five-year leases, and pay three times the rental per aquare mile. But the whole area under annual lease is only 10,101,760 acres, while the area under five-year lease is 173,005,440 acres—equal to five-sixths of the whole area of the colony. Are these 10,000,000 acres the only Grown lands worth a rental of two pounds per square mile? These annual leases include, we presume, all the preleases in the colony. Mr. Gamarr has lately explained that squatters prefer a prelease to a lease. The reason of this obviously is that the Court has decided that a prelease cannot be carved out of a prelease. visually is that the Court has decided that a prelease cannot be carved out of a prelease. This goes to show that squatters will give a higher rent for land not exposed to preleasing than for land that is. A fortiori, they would give still more for land not exposed to he waste of annual rental we suffer in having We depreciate the annual rental of millions We depreciate the annual rental of millions of acres in order to stimulate the alienation of a few thousands. These annul leaseholders have each an average of 655 acres only, while the five-year leases average 40,803 acres. Mr. Piddington's return will, perhaps, enable us to see whether the small leaseholders are the genuine work-incoming from the sale of the state of the state. Mr. Bosses ing-men free-selectors for who open the whole Crown lands of the colony, But the large leaseholders are also free-selectors, as well as purchasers at auction and by volunteer land orders. They have got into their hands already, on hundreds of our runs, every waterhole and every bit of land that can be considered "the key of the position;" and having secured the frontages, blocks are at their mercy. The whole area of public lands alienated is only about 2000 square miles; but this has been alienated in such a way that it was acknowledged by several speakers in the Assembly that the value of the runs had been greatly reduced, though these runs embrase 270,321 square

There is one more point to notice in this article. Under the head of rent, &c., from the public estate, Mr. Robbertson includes mineral cases of all kinds, timber licenses, interest on balances, and every penny on which he can lay his hands for the purpose of swelling his total. Is it likely that the rental from the to discuss whatever may appear to be for the public welfare, and respect nothing in public life that cannot give a good reason for its existence. Constituents may be easily imposed upon by cunning speeches from the hustings, and l'arliament may be sometimes hoodwinked by cooked returns, but the Press is, fortunately, still open to probe every question to the bottom, and to challenge the truth of all overstimable official representations. the wasted forests are lost for ever. The chief item, however, by which the rents proper are supplemented in this Government document is interest on the balances owing by conditional purchasers. We claim that this item of £63,344 for 1874, and the larger sums for subsequent years, have no business to appear as rent at all, but should be transferred to the seless account. ferred to the sales account. And for this eason: Land at suction sells at a higher price than under conditional purchase, and he whole price is paid within three he whole price is paid within three months. A conditional purchaser has three years' exemption from interest, which educes the price of his land by one-tenth to begin with, and after that he pays rather less than the interest which the colony has to pay for borrowed money, after making allowance for the extra departmental expenses of keeping this account open for so many years. The whole interest on those many years. The whole interest on these balances ought to go to the account of sales, and even then it is less than the difference between the price of land sold at auction and land sold under conditional purchase.

The squatters are not to be blamed for making the best they can out of the land law. They are quite justified in looking after their own interests in any honest way. But the question for the public to consider is whether the law is working for the general good. Are we handling the public extent thrifting? And if was ling the public estate thriftily? And if we are laviah with it, are we getting compensation for the waste in some form that is worth more than ready money, legislation of last session rectified readers to study the evidence which we have to submit.

First of all, we must supplement this Treasury document by certain additional facts without which it is worse than valueless, because absolutely misleading. If it is true that the rental of the multicastate is rising, notwith. date.

On resuming his seat, three chosen was accorded Dr. Roberts, for his hindness in attending at the opening of the new Mudgee Hospital.

Assubdences Gratzers said it gave him great pleasure to attend, as the oldest member of the committee of the Mudgee Hospital. He recollected when there was no hospital in Mudgee at all, and the difficulty they had in first procuring one. When it was first proposed to erect the present sphendid building, he certainly thought there would have been much difficulty in accomplishing it, though he had not thrown cold water on the movement. From a long-experience he had invariably found the inhabitants of Badgee and the district to be a liberal people, and willing to subscribe towards any object they considered a describing one. (Applause.) The present building was a credit to the town and district, and he had no doubt it would receive a liberal support. For the poor, or even those in moderate circumstances but who had no homes, a building like that opened to-day would be an invaluable boost in times of eightness, or in the event of accidents. The Rov. J. O'Donovan had not anticipated addressing those present. Had a collecture been made, he might have expected to be ceiled on to assist in lightening some of their peckets. (Laughter.) This day ought to be one of gladness and rejecting to the people of Mudges. A few months heek they fad met together to by the foundation-stone of that building, which was now erected, and a credit to the Mudges district. (Cheers.) He had travelled ever most of the Western district, and in no other town visited by him was there such an Loopital; in fact he did not believe it could be equalled in the colony, out of Sydney. (Appletuse.) Charity was one of the chief injunctions of our devine Lord, who, when he left this world, enjoined that the poor should be cared for. The ancient Christians had formed a common fund for the relief of the poor, to which they all contributed and our present hospitals were the outcome of flast practice. Hospitals and other charitable institutions were among the chief glucies of the mother country and Europe, and it was a good thing to see the injunctions of this great colony vieing with each other in

TO THE EUTOR OF THE HERALD.

SIR.—I have been much amused by reading Mr. James handing's letter in your issue of yesterday, wherein he indexes to criticise the various writers on the subject so dear to him as the construction of a railway to Illawarra. The writers who advocate this stapendous folly are charactrized by h'm as "able," "admirable," "excellent," "unansweakle," de, 'while those who have the misforterume (?) to differ from him are "ahallow," "blind, "blunders," propagators of "fallaces," de. It is stange that a large public question of this kind should have all the perfection of intellect ranged on one side, and imbedity on the other!

I th'mk I may safely aver that the great majority of those closely interested in the Newcostle cod-fields have not the alighest four that their interests would be prejudiced by the construction of a railway to the southern coalfields. We have coal close to the seaboard which will last for generations to come, even were the trade to increase in the same ratio as it has hitherto done. And I am glad to say the Logi-ladure is at last recognizing the importance of this harbour by providing funds to easile us to used all inture demand's likely to be made by the shipping visiting the port.

So long as good coal is available contiguous to deep water, TO THE BUITOR OF THE HERALD.

the harbour by providing funds to enable us to neet all inture demand's likely to be made by the shipping visiting the port.

So long as good coal is available contiguous to deep water, sust to long will it be found that coal at a distance glaland, cannot be writed predictably by reason of the heavy cost of sarriage. What loss stopped the Greta colliery but its distance (32 miles) from Newcastle. The same circumstance accounts for the present languishing state of the collieries on the Western line of railway. These collieries are not only heavily handicapped by the traction rates, but it requires an immense outlay of capital to purchase rolling stack to carry on their funds with the name regularity as their more furturate competitors whose works and close at hand. Colliedes in our immediate vicinity can get their tracks filled, emptied, and returned to their respective pits twice, and even three times in the same day, whereas it takes about two or three days to do similar good for colling-stock is required to carry on operations, and early any control of additional tower and tear.

If, with the advantages of the present high price of coal, and prospecius state of trade, collieries as a distance of thirty-two miles have to succumb, what must be the prospects of those at a distance of sixty-six miles? Simply ress.

Until the coal-fields close at hand are worked out these at a distance of over twenty miles inland can never pay. But we have already cheep water carriage to Wollongood and Bulli; and if milway carriage is champer than water carriage in England, which I very much doubt, it certainly ing wound up, could not although it has a seam of coa-test thick of the best quality, compete with the other has not Nevosatic, as the cost of hanlage allowed up all the profit, and as this was only thirty-te.

RESCUE FROM DROWNING.—On Saturday afternoon (the Brisdone Telegraph says) some boys were fishing on the banks of the river below the gasworks, at Brisdone, when one of them, named Cathoway, aged about nine years, fell into deep water, and was fast being carried away by the tide, when Mr. George Hardy, of the Government Printing Office, who was fishing some distance below the place, observing the boy rise to the surface, at once jumped into the water and brought him sahore. The boy was quite exhausted when brought to the bank; and it is quite certain that but for the bravery of Mr. Hardy he would have been drowned.

The block contains an area of about 2 ROOMS II PERCHES, for which there is a CERTIPICATE UNIER TOLRENS' ACT, and in addition PERMISSION HAS BEEN OBTAINED still further to extend into the harbour to the extend of nearly A QUARTER OF AN ACRE.

On the Sussex-street frontage are four 2-story recently created of RODUCE STORIES, with extensive shed basement on a level with the wharf. These stores are at present fet, without any coancetion, or interfering in any way, with the working of the slip and wharf.

Independent of its value as a patent slip, the property occupies the most valuable position on the harbour for a COMMERCIAL WHARP, which would command an extensive business in connection with the coasting and intercolonial trade.
